Pavel Bazov's 140th Anniversary of Birth

The program of Pavel Bazhov's 140th anniversary celebrations opened with a large "Road to Fairytales" exposition and #READBAZHOV action in Sverdlovsk region. The unique photos show the transformation of simple boy from Ural village into famous writer. His great-grandson Alexey Bazhov considered this exhibition to be one of the brightest events of the anniversary year.

According to Deputy Minister of Culture of Sverdlovsk region Sergey Radchenko, Pavel Bazhov takes special place in world literature and Ural's history. He has managed to turn industrial Ural into magical one, and it became a part of life for everyone who has ever read Bazhov's stories.

#READBAZHOV action took place in Sverdlovsk region. Bazhov's great-grandson and other guests were reading his stories for the children of boarding school in Yekaterinburg and gave them Pavel Bazhov's books. The names of Bazhov's annual literature award laureates were listed before writer's anniversary. Russian and Russian-speaking authors from the USA, Germany and Israel applied for the award.

Our Talents

On the 2nd of February our talented singers took part in the municipal competition of the patriotic songs. The contest was held in the Palace of culture of Sysert. More than thirty vocal performances were evaluated by a competent jury.

The participants were divided into three age groups. Each group includes soloists, duets and ensembles. The high creative level of the artists forced the jury to try hard to choose the best. Especially difficult it was in the senior solo group, where eventually awarded three second places - all the vocalists were brilliant!

Here you can see videos of the best performances of the contest - https://vk.com/for_to4ka.

Our winners: Arina Prosvirnova, 7B, Vera Starikova, 10A, Olga Konovalova, 5C - the 1st place, Zlata Prosvirnova, 2A - the 2nd place.

Art Contest

"Уральские россыпи" - 2019

Anastasia Guseva, 7B, became a prize-winner of the Art Contest "Уральские россыпи", devoted to Pavel Bazov's 140th Anniversary of Birth. The exhibition of art works of prize-winners of the contest was held in Gymnasium 155 of Yekaterinburg.

Interview with a scholar

Mikhail Zhilin, a student of the 11th grade, became the winner and prize-winner of the municipal and regional stages of the Olympiads on History for three times - in 2016, 2017, 2018. He took part in the Final stage of the all-Russian Olympiad on history.

We asked Mikhail some questions.

- When did you become interested in the subject "History"?

- At first this school subject seemed to me boring, uninteresting, and difficult. Everything changed by the accident. I read a book on the history of Russia. It had three parts. I liked it. After that I started reading other historical books. Gradually the subject "history" became my favorite hobby. I began studying history very seriously when I was in the 8th grade.

- What were your greatest achievements and most impressive failure?

- My participation in the Final stage of the all-Russian Olympiad on history. I could not cope with my excitement (or may be because of excessive self-confidence). I could not win it.

- What are your favorite books and movies?

- I like to read historical books, scientific and political writings, belletristic literature. I also love reading detective stories and books and articles on Economics and psychology. My favorite films are detectives, thrillers, fiction.

- What do you do in your free time?

- I like to spend time with my friends. I often read books, watch TV, surf the Internet. I spend a lot of time preparing for exams because nobody will take exams for me))

- Do you succeed on your own or does someone help you?

- I'm self-taught. All my successes and achievements today are the result of my own efforts.

- How to become successful?

- Do everything yourself! Do not rely on teachers, friends, parents. Read more and learn more! The more we read the more we know, the more confident and successful we become.

- Are foreign languages important for you?

- Yes, they are. I study English at school. Five years ago I began studying Chinese and took part in the Chinese language Olympiad. Two years ago I visited China. I combined a rest and studies there. It is a wonderful country! I got a lot of impressions and experience there.

We wish Mikhail every success. May all his dreams come true!

THE FLOWER OF STONE by Pavel Bazhov

THE FLOWER OF STONE

It wasn't only Mramor that was famous for stone carving, folks say there were craftsmen in our villages too. Only ours mostly worked with malachite, because there was plenty of it, and the very finest kind. The things they made, you'd just stare and wonder how they did it.

There was a master craftsman in those days called Prokopyich. He was the best there was in carving, none other could come near him. But he was getting old, so the Master told the bailiff to give Prokopyich an apprentice. "Let some lad learn his craft, all of it, to the last secret."

But Prokopyich—maybe he just didn't want to give away the secrets of his craft, or maybe it was something else, but he didn't teach any of them

A long time ago in the Urals village there lived a famous craftsman named Prokopyich. He made jewelry and other things from malachite and was renowned as the best gem carver in the Urals. The rulers ordered him to teach some boys his profession, but none of them was talented enough.

At the same time an orphan named Danila lived in the village. He was weak and couldn't work at the factory. But he was full of dreams and liked to observe nature. Once he tried to help an old herdsman, but when he played his flute, the old shepherd felt asleep and several cattle were eaten by wolves. Danila and the herdsman were severely punished.

A kind old woman took Danila into her house and healed him using many herbs and flowers. She taught him the lore of plants, and one day told him about the Stone Flower from Malachite Mountain. She told him it was the most beautiful flower in the world. But she also warned him, "Whoever finds that flower will never be happy".

After Danila recovered, the manager of the factory sent him to Prokopyich to study gem carving. He was surprisingly gifted. Prokopyich was a widow without children, and he loved the boy as if he were his own son. Several years passed. Danila became a strong, handsome young man.

One day the owner of the factory sent him a commission to make a vase from malachite, along with a sketch of what he wanted. Danila began the intricate task, but he was unsatisfied with the idea on the sketch. Every day he went to the woods looking for inspiration and observing many flowers and plants. He worked for a long time and at last completed a vase like the one in the sketch. When he showed it to the other craftsmen, they liked it and praised it. But Danila said, "This vase is made precisely according to the sketch, but there is no living beauty in it. When you look at the simplest flower, joy fills your heart because of its beauty. Where is there such beauty in the stone?"

One very old craftsman warned him, "Don't even think that way. Otherwise you could become a servant of the Mistress of Copper Mountain. Her workers live and work in the Mountain and nobody ever sees them. Once I was lucky enough to see their work. Magnificent! Our work can't compare with theirs, because they have seen the Stone Flower and understand the beauty of the stone".

After this conversation Danila went to the woods more often looking for a block of stone for his own vase. Prokopyich was worried about him and urged him to marry the nice girl named Katya to whom Danila was engaged. But Danila said, "I want to wait! First I need to make my own vase and then we will think about marriage".

One day he was in the woods looking for stone and suddenly heard a whisper saying, "Danila-Craftsman, look for stone on Serpent Hill." He turned around and saw the dim outline of a woman, which vanished in a second. He thought, "Perhaps it was the Mistress of Copper Mountain!" So he went to Serpent Hill and found a huge block of malachite. He was very glad, took the stone home and started to carve the vase.

But soon again he was disappointed with the result and said sadly, "Maybe I am just not able to understand the power and the beauty of the stone." So he and Katya announced the date of their wedding. The day before the wedding he went for a walk to Serpent Hill again, sat down and thought about the Stone Flower. "How I desire to see that Flower!" he mused.

The coolest trip!

Long before December, 26th all our class was looking forward to coming to "Ivolga" Recreational Centre.

And at last we arrived there. The weather was sunny and frosty. After we checked into our comfortable rooms, we had a barbecue. While our parents and class teacher were grilling sausages and laying the table in the small and cosy garden house, we walked around, played snowballs and had fun.

After the tasty barbecue party, we had a rest in our rooms. Some guys played football, some boys and girls went skating. Also we slid on tubings. And then we had dinner in "Ivolga" restaurant.

We enjoyed the meal and the atmosphere there. Then we went downstairs into the bowling center where we spent three hours roll-positive feelings with our classmates.

The funniest thing of all was that we went to bed only in the morning. We slept very little. It was so awesome to come round to the friends' rooms at night, we talked a lot, watched videos and films, telling jokes and laughing.

In the morning we were going to play lazertag, but it was so cold that the equipment couldn't work. So we had breakfast and after a while we left.

ing balls, dancing and singing, enjoying our time together.

Late in the evening we gathered in our parents' room for a "candle talk". We got rid of our negative memories and shared

We had a great time in "Ivolga"! That was A-W-E-S-O-M-E! And now we hope to come back to "Ivolga" again!

Maria Tihomirova:

This year more classmates have travelled to Ivolga than last year. That was the funniest and the coolest trip I've had with my class.

Darya Tarabaeva:

While our parents and our teacher were watching the grill, we had fun running on the snowdrifts, playing snowballs, taking photos and making snow angels! After the barbecue we were offered a ride down the hill on bagels and skating.

The meeting with Sysert hockey players and fans began at 9 o'clock in the evening in "Noviy" district. The guests were greeted by the Director of the Center for sports and tourism development of the Sysert District Alexey

Some People Monuments of Moscow

Last October I visited Moscow for the first time. Needless to say, I took a lot of pictures. Here are some of my pictures and what I've learned about the monuments they depict.

Marshal Zhukov

Georgy Zhukov's monument is in Manege Square, on the north side of the State Historical Museum. The equestrian statue, created by sculptor Vyacheslav Klykov, commemorates the marshal's role in the Moscow Victory Parade of 1945. Zhukov, a former cavalry commander, rode a white stallion named Idol as he inspected the assembled troops. Idol's hooves can be seen trampling the standards of Nazi Germany (the front view shows a large eagle standard).

The monument to Valentina Tereshkova is on Cosmonauts Alley, which extends south from the Museum of Cosmonautics. She was the first woman in space, launching into orbit aboard Vostok 6 on June 16, 1963. She was also the first civilian in space, and remains the only woman to fly a solo mission in space. She has received many Soviet and Russian awards, including Hero of the Soviet Union. Her monument is next to that of Yuri Gagarin, the first man in space.

Malchish-Kibalkhish is not a real person. He's a fictional character in a story written by Arkady Gaidar (Tale of the Military Secret – Malchish-Kibalkhish and His Firm Word, 1933).

Gaidar later included the tale as a story-within-a-story in one of his novels (Military Secret, 1935). The monument is located inside the main entrance of the Moscow Young Pioneers Palace. This sizable compound sits atop Sparrow Hills next to Vernadskogo Avenue.

Valentina Tereshkova

Alexander I

Alexander I, victor in the Patriotic War of 1812, was Emperor of All Russia from 1801 to 1825. His monument is located beyond the Kremlin's west wall in the garden that bears his name. Alexander Garden was built in a part of the city destroyed by French soldiers during their brief occupation in 1812. The statue's right foot rests on the standards of Napoleon's Grande Armee (the French Imperial Eagle is visible on the left side).

Malchish-Kibalkhish

Dmitri Mendeleev

Mendeleev's monument is on the north-west side of the large rectangular fountain in front of Moscow State University. A chemist and inventor, he is most famous for creating the periodic table of the elements. He then used holes in the table to predict the existence of eight elements that were unknown at the time. A dozen Russian scientists have monuments on either side of the fountain, including Alexander Popov, Ivan Pavlov, and Mikhail Lomonosov.

To learn or not to learn foreign languages?

Languages are always changing. People become isolated in small groups and when two of them have no communicate between, their languages slowly becomes different from its original. Isolation causes them to change in different ways. Over time, they become completely different languages. And that is why we have so many languages.

Because of this we have a language barrier, too. People from different countries can't contact with each other using their speech, less they'll speak one language. Is it a problem? Definitely yes! One of the biggest problems of languages. And it must be solved, but how? Creating one single language that everyone can understand?

There is an example of such kind of languages – Esperanto. It is understood by 2,000,000 people, but it isn't enough for the world with 7,000,000,000 inhabitants, and I don't think it still has a chance. An advantage of Esperanto is that it isn't derived from any other language, it is absolutely new. «Што ес Словио? Словио ес новйу межународйу йазика ктор разумийут чтирсто милион лудис на целойу земла!» This is an example of a text in Slovio language, understandable for the majority of the Slavic population, but doesn't common enough. The creation of another international language will take years. And, of course, it does not guarantee success. So, the profession of a translator is demanded and will be demanded in the future.

I study two languages: English and Japanese. What for? I'd like to become a translator, to help people in their communication. I want to have an opportunity to travel around the world. I study the world view of other nations.

Why do I learn languages? Just cause of ... Everything! Every language isn't only letters, words, phrases, it is a reflection of the national culture, history, customs and traditions. Awesome people wrote, "Language defines thinking". I completely agree with it. For example, in the Japanese language there is a word "青" (ao). It denotes colors: green and blue. In Russian, English, French we use different words to designate these colors, while in Japanese we call grass, sky, and water in one color – "青". Even from the name of color, the world view is changing. Imagine if we called trees and the sky the same color, life would change, wouldn't it?

I think, life will be easier, if we break the language barrier. But it will not be more interesting. People's views will become similar, interesting dialects will disappear. In my opinion, it is necessary to study languages and culture of different nations, elevate your mind!

Let's get acquainted!

From the history of my school

In the XIX century there was no school in our village.

In 1872 Shchelkunskaya school was opened. Children from Nikolskoye studied there. Because of the long distance between the villages, it was very difficult for children to get there. Parents often did not let their children go to school.

School Firm "Granit"

We study at a great school № 16 in a village Nikolskoye. During the last 3-4 years many changes have occurred at our school. It was renovated and now it looks much more beautiful. Each floor has its own color now. Some new classrooms were built. All the old ones were transformed. I want to mention the library. It has become much more comfortable and nice. A beautiful exhibition of pictures as well as a new reading room were made. Our school has its own flag, emblem and coat of arms.

The students of the 11th Form organized a school firm "GRANIT" under the guidance of our head teacher, the teacher of technology and economics Elena Alexandrovna Maljutina. The leader of the firm is Artem Zhalilov. We made our own business project and study entrepreneurial activities. All the members of the firm have their duties. Every year we have the New Year Fair.

We sell goods made by the members of the firm. We create unique Christmas souvenirs by ourselves and can get salary for our work. We are very glad to be the members of the firm "GRANIT", because we have a great opportunity to get experience and knowledge in business sphere. Our work is very interesting. We were awarded by Honorary Diploma of the Governor of Sverdlovsk region.

Nikolskaya School in 1967

At the end of the XIX century the wife of the landowner began to teach children from Nikolskoye reading and writing free of charge. In 1905, the school was located in two cottages, where the wife of the land doctor, the teacher Iraida Atamanskikh taught children.

In 1923, Klepkov Anatoly Ivanovich together with his wife gave the school new life. In 1930 it was transformed into a seven-year-old school. The school had double-shifting studying. In 1937, a new school was built. Anatoly Ivanovich organized delivering pupils and went to Sverdlovsk for equipment.

In 1974, the construction of a modern school building began. The headmaster of school Cherkasova Valentina Ivanovna did all her best to build it. On September 1, 1976, the school welcomed her first pupils. Now it is a clean and bright building, where not only children from Nikolskoye but also children from nearby villages study.

My favourite teacher

There are many wonderful teachers in our school. My favourite teacher is Galina Alexandrovna Ognivova. She teaches Russian and Literature. She is very clever and kind. She always gives us the second chance to correct bad marks. Our copy-books are always clean, without blots. We take part in different contests and often get prizes and honorary diplomas. Due to Galina Alexandrovna's lessons I became interested in reading books and magazines. I'm proud of my teacher!

Victoria Vtulkina, 5th Form

My name is Katya. I study at Nikolskaya school № 16. There are small classes at our school and everyone knows one another. Pupils go to different clubs and take part in competitions. Our teachers are kind and caring. They give us knowledge. My class teacher is Viktor Sergeevich Yakushev. He teaches music, social science and history. At his lessons we learn a lot of new things.

In my class there are 23 pupils. We are the biggest class in our school. We are friendly and cheerful. Some pupils go to school by bus. During the break we play table tennis or go to the library. There are many interesting books in our library. The school has a small but cozy dining room. Hot lunches are always served there.

Next to our school there is a House of Culture and there is a lake behind the school.

Ekaterina Durova, 5th Form,

I love my school !

We like travelling and often go on hikes and excursions around Sysert, visit theatres and museums in our home town and Yekaterinburg. As for our teachers,

My name is Elena. I study at school № 23 of Sysert. I love my school and I want to tell you about it.

My school opened its doors in 1969. It is situated in the center of my hometown. It is a three-story building. On the ground floor there are many classrooms for pupils of the primary school and dressing rooms. On the second floor there are studies for high school students and a dining room. On the third floor there is a library and school museum. All the studies are well-equipped. There are electronic boards and computers in the classrooms. To my mind, my school is beautiful and cozy.

About 1200 pupils study in my school. They take an active part in different contests, Olympiads, sports competitions and often win them. Every year our schoolmates participate in Cross of the Nation, Ski track of Russia and other sports events. Not long ago our school team took the 2nd place in the regional chess competition. We are proud of our sportsmen. I do sports, too.

they are strict but understanding, kind and skillful! We always can discuss our problems with them. Our teachers are real professionals in their subjects. They give us knowledge and do it in an interesting and modern way. We respect and love them very much. I think, teachers are very important people in the life of everyone. They help us to understand who we are. We are grateful to our teachers for everything they do for us.

This year my school celebrates its 50th anniversary. My congratulations to my favorite school!

The collage is a vibrant celebration of linguistic diversity. At the top, a word cloud of 'Thank you' in numerous languages (including English, Russian, Spanish, French, German, and many others) is arranged in a circular pattern. Below this, the title 'Неделя иностранных языков' (Week of Foreign Languages) is prominently displayed in large, bold, red Cyrillic letters. To the right of the title, a large, stylized Union Jack flag is shown, partially overlapping a German flag. In the foreground, a silhouette of a city skyline, featuring the iconic Big Ben clock tower, is visible against a light background. The overall composition is colorful and festive, reflecting the multicultural theme of the event.
