The influence of cartoons on children's cognitive development and behavior

- Cartoons have more positive effects than negative ones.
- Psychologists believe that Soviet and Russia's cartoons have a more positive impact on children than foreign ones. After watching them children become friendlier, kinder, and more sociable.

Conclusion

- We enjoy watching spectacular and exciting cartoons but not all of them are useful for children. With the help of cartoons, children find out a lot of new things, learn useful skills, and have a good rest.
- Cartoons can have different effects on the young viewers. Our friends, parents, and teachers often help us choose interesting and useful cartoons.
